The experimental results show that a maximum voltage of GaInP/InGaAs/Ge triple-junction photovoltaic panels is reached at a solar irradiance of 200 W/m<sup>2</sup> and this voltage keeps almost stable with the varying factors. For the effects of solar irradiance, the current and temperature of the photovoltaic panels increase linearly with the solar irradiance rise.

Centralized photovoltaic (PV) power plants, as the main form of solar energy utilization, has been world-widely constructing in recent two decades, which makes photovoltaic landcover (PVL) becoming an important landcover type. Accurately mapping PVL provides basis for both the estimation of grid-connected PV power capacity and the optimization of spatial ...
